LECTURE BY THOMAS MEYER
(UNIVERSITY OF MUNICH)

Hannah Arendt in Paris (1933-1940)

RESPONDENT: MICHAEL WEINMAN
(INDIANA UNIVERSITY)

In this lecture, Thomas Meyer, the author of a new biography of Hannah Arendt, will discuss the interrelation between thought and action during Hannah Arendt's years of exile in Paris. The lecture will focus in particular on Arendt's commitment to the organization of children and youth emigration to Palestine (Aliya) and her reflections on modern anti-Semitism, especially in view of her later work.

Thomas Meyer is Professor for Philosophy at LMU Munich. Since October 2020, he has been publishing a twelve-volume study edition of Hannah Arendt's works, eight volumes of which have already been published. "Hannah Arendt. The Biography" was published in September 2023. The French edition is due in 2025.

Michael Weinman is Senior Lecturer of Political Science and Jewish Studies at Indiana University Bloomington. His current monograph project, The Political Theology of Hannah Arendt, is under contract with Edinburgh University Press. He is the author of six earlier books, most recently Hannah Arendt and Politics (Edinburgh University Press, 2022), co-authored with Maria Robaszkiewicz.
